SCHOOL REPORT.

In presenting this report our attention is naturally given first to the school buildings. We have used these buildings, so far as needful, with only the slight outlay for repairs which was absolutely necessary to make them habitable. We have not thought it wise to do more than this till it is fully determined whether we are to keep them all where they now are, or to have fewer of them and differently located. In a matter like this, affecting the public interest and convenience, we feel that the public voice should direct. But the condition of some of these buildings will make it necessary that something more be done soon.

In the matter of books, we considered the schools fairly well equipped, and have made no changes the past year.

We did our best to procure good and satisfactory teachers, always giving the preference, other things being equal, to our own; and in reviewing the year we feel that it is only just to these teachers to say that in our judgment they were, as a whole, very faithful and very successful in their work. It is too much to expect that there shall be absolutely no friction where there are so many persons and interests involved, yet the year, we are happy to say, passed very smoothly and with a very commendable degree of harmony and co-operation among parents, teachers and scholars; and, as a result, we think the year was a more than usually pleasant and profitable one for our schools.

We would briefly call attention to two things: The one we were sorry to see—the other pleased us. We noticed the withdrawal of several of the larger scholars, near the close of the fall term, on the plea of needing a little rest before the opening of the high school. This seems to indicate either that the term of the common schools was too long, or that the high school was not properly adjusted to them. We were sorry to see these desertions, as they marred considerably the interest in the closing weeks and in the examinations.

The thing which pleased us was the interest of parents and friends in the schools, attested in many ways, and among others, by their visits to the schools. This is as it ought to be, and we trust there may be still more of it.

In conclusion, we would express our hearty appreciation of the kindness and co-operation extended to us in the discharge of our official duties.

SPECIAL REPORT.

NO. 1.

This is a large and always interesting school, and under the skillful leadership of Miss Lettie W. Goodhue made a steady and satisfactory advance through the year. The school building is in bad condition, and requires extensive repairs or reconstruction. Which it shall be we feel ought to be determined by those most concerned.

NO. 2.

This school is small, but it is good what there is of it, and it is growing. It had the advantage the last year of two excellent young teachers. Miss Flora J. Barber taught the summer, and Miss Nettie I. A. Stearns the fall term, with great acceptance.

NO. 3.

Miss Sarah F. Weston taught the summer term. She was very successful, and greatly liked by all as a teacher. Miss Lizzie I. Crockett taught the fall term with good results and growing favor. We liked the work done in this school, and are sorry to see its numbers diminished by the removal of so many families. This building also is sadly dilapidated.

NO. 4.

A short summer term was held here, taught by Miss Lizzie I. Crockett. Only one family of three children in attendance, but they were all constant and faithful, and made excellent progress.

NO. 5.

Miss Nellie L. Davis, teacher for the school year. It was a first experience, but was very successful considering it was her home school, with stirring scholars, and some of them well advanced in their studies.

NO. 6.

Miss Flora J. Tubbs, of Peterboro', teacher both spring and fall terms. She is a well trained and excellent teacher, was greatly liked by most of the school, and was particularly successful in interesting and advancing the younger scholars.

NO. 7.

Miss Mary L. Knight taught the summer term with great acceptance, but was prevented by domestic sorrow from completing the term. The fall term was taught by Miss M. Lizzie Hadley, of Jaffrey. She became a great favorite in the school, and the examinations witnessed to good work done by teacher and scholars.

NO. 8.

This school has greatly increased in numbers and interest since our last report. Good work was done and decided progress made under Miss M. L. Hadley, teacher of the summer, and Miss Ella C. Ware, teacher of the fall term. These are both experienced teachers, and did their best for the school, with good and satisfactory results.

NO. 9.

Only one term was held here this year, taught by Miss Sarah F. Weston. The attendance was good most of the term, and the examination at the close was admirable—the best we have yet heard in this excellent school. But its scholars have now all graduated, and with honor, and unless the unexpected happens, it will be closed for some time.
